Wesel Defenders Capable of Battle

By Associated Press Leased Wire
The Hague, March 27.—While the workmen's army in northern Rhineland Prussia has the fortress at Wesel partly surrounded the defenders are capable of stiff resistance, according to Dutch press dispatches and information reaching military circles at The Hague. The anti-government army, however, it is reported, in a dispatch to the Rotterdam Courant from Munster has swung around the town to the north, attacking from that quarter. Their last official communique says:
"Dinslaken and Halter are now well in the hands of the laborers. The front has been advanced on the west of Wesel and on the north to Munster. The Reds are very near Wesel and it is not impossible that Wesel will fall today. The military conditions on the whole are extraordinarily favorable to the Reds. Friedrichsfeld has been taken."

LOWDEN'S SUGGESTION GETS VOTE FOR WOMEN IN PRIMARY ELECTION

Atty. Gen. Brundage Reverses His Former Opinion.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, March 27.—Illinois women will be permitted to vote at the presidential preference primary April 13 regardless of whether national suffrage has been ratified by 36 states prior to that time.
Attorney General Brundage today, at the suggestion of Governor Frank O. Lowden, reversed a previous ruling denying the women the vote.
Governor Lowden in a letter to Mr. Brundage, pointing out that the Cook county and Chicago election officials had announced their intention of supplying separate ballots to women and asked if the same plan could not be followed throughout the state without invalidating the primary. Mr. Brundage agreed and withdrew his previous ruling.

Notifies County Clerks
Secretary of State Emerson immediately notified all county clerks by telegram to take the necessary steps to provide for the women voters.
The governor's letter to the attorney general says that "unless the women in the 101 counties outside of the city of Chicago and outside of Cook are permitted to vote at these primaries it will be a direct discrimination against them and thousands of women who may wish to exercise their preference in the presidential primaries will be deprived of that right."

Mr. Brundage in his reply, says the plan suggested by the governor would not be illegal, providing the women's ballots are counted separately, so that, in case of any contest later, the primary would not be rendered invalid.

No democrats have filed as candidates in the presidential preference primary but on the republican side Governor Frank O. Lowden and Major General Leonard Wood, the two contestants, are preparing for a vigorous campaign prior to the April 13th primaries.

Both candidates will enter the state following the Michigan primaries April 5, and assisted by a number of other speakers, will make an active fight for delegates.

Lowden managers have announced that the governor will be assisted by Senators Lawrence Y. Sherman and Medill McCormick and all the republican congressmen from Illinois.

General Wood will open his Illinois campaign with a speech here next Wednesday night.

C. H. KEYES HAS SOLD INTERESTS IN BIG BUSINESS

Chas. Klepinger to Become Member of Local Firm.

Keyes-Ahrens Furniture company announce today that the president of the company, C. H. Keyes, has sold his stock to Chas. Klepinger, who will take a place in the organization, while Mr. Keyes will retire from active mercantile business and devote his time to other interests.

Mr. Keyes has always been held in high respect and esteem by his associates and fellow citizens and is one of our oldest active business men, having been engaged in business here since 1866.
During all these years Mr. Keyes has been successful in the broadest sense of the term, having been identified with every move for civic betterment and has given both time and money to matters of public interest; he was president of the Retail & Merchants association for several years and originated and encouraged the move for shorter hours for Dixon business people and clerks, and over several periods at intervals during his long residence in Dixon was a member of the city council, being one of the councilmen responsible for the adoption of the policy of laying concrete sidewalks and paved streets and encouraging the interest for city parks.

About thirty years ago he engaged in the furniture business and with shrewd foresight in the employment of progressive methods, later adopted the policy of associating younger men with the organization and under his direction it has become the largest and most widely known home-furnishing concern in this section of the state, drawing business from every direction over a wide territory and in turn, delivering purchases by auto truck within 100 miles.

Chas. Klepinger has made Dixon his home and headquarters for many years and is well and favorably known and the fact that he was district manager of the Rock Island Plow Co. is evidence of his business ability. Mr. Klepinger has spent 22 years in the wholesale trade and is a member of the executive council of the local branch of the United Commercial Travelers of America.

The policy of the company will continue along the same broad lines as are now in effect.

Assessors Collect Taxes on Canines

Tax assessors of Illinois will not only levy on property this year, but will carry a pocketful of dog tags and when informed that a canine is part of the property, they will proceed to write out a license issue tag and collect the money due the county.

The action of the Illinois legislature in adding the above duties on the assessor was taken with the idea of gathering more dog taxes. Under the prior law dog taxes were collected together with the personal taxes and that amount was turned over to the supervisor to meet claim for loss from sheep killed by dogs. The new law will make the amount payable to the county treasurer, who also handles the payment for sheep killed by dogs. The maximum amount paid for sheep killed by the canine of the county is $15 per head.

All dogs will be forced to wear the special tag issued by the assessors, attached to the collar so as to designate that the tax has been paid. A fee of one dollar for male and three dollars for females is assessed each owner of the canine. The tags are now in the hands of the county clerk to be distributed.

INVENTOR INVENTED WORTHLESS CHECKS; IS IN COUNTY JAIL

W. L. Ray of Rochelle in Bad with Local Authorities.

W. L. Ray, of Rochelle, who claims to be an inventor, invented some worthless checks in Dixon within the past two weeks and consequently is now taking a rest in the county jail after two weeks of high living, during which time money was apparently of little object to him. Ray came to his senses yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock when Chief Van Bibbe placed him under arrest near the Northwest depot on a charge of passing worthless checks, and escorted him to the court of Justice Albert Hannekan, where Ray admitted the charge. Unable to furnish bonds in the amount of $200 he was taken to the county jail, his case being continued until Tuesday morning.

From information given out at the police station this morning, it appears that Ray came to Dixon about two weeks ago with a woman who registered under the name of Francis Fulmer, and claimed to be a child-welfare worker from Denver, Colo. Ray told the police that he met and became acquainted with her at Oregon. The couple repaired to the Nachusa Tavern where they engaged the very finest suite and accommodations obtainable. The Denver welfare enthusiast made trips to Chicago and left Dixon yesterday morning.

Ray presented the hotel manager with a check amounting to $65.35 yesterday forenoon and left a balance amounting to about six dollars. The check was drawn on a blank check from the Oregon State Savings bank. When Manager Rice became suspicious, he learned that the check was worthless and that there were no funds in the bank. He then consulted Chief Van Bibbe and the warrant was sworn out which resulted in the arrest and downfall of the inventor. Albert Wilson has also reported to the police that he holds a worthless check written by Ray for $25 and it is doubtful just how many of these worthless checks have been circulated in the city.

FRANK LAWTON CALLED HOME LAST EVENING

Well Known Dixonite Was Victim of Paralysis.

Frank H. Lawton, a resident of Dixon for about 35 years, passed away at his home, 117 Crawford avenue at a late hour last evening, his death following an illness of many weeks duration. The deceased was known to be a man in all that the name implies and during his residence in Dixon, by his kindly acts and charitable disposition, won for himself a wide circle of acquaintances who mourn his taking. In his life time he at all times sought to aid in any way possible, those who were in need, who were distressed or in sorrow, but at no time did he seek compensation for his kindly acts. It was his belief that the life of a man as he lived it should be his monument.

Mr. Lawton was born in Morrison, Whiteside county, November 14, 1864, but had spent the greater part of his life in Dixon. On October 7, 1895, he was united in marriage to Miss Alice Welch of this city, who with his aged father, three brothers, Fred, of Morrison, Will of Kansas City, Joe of Seattle and one sister, Mrs. John Scanlan, of Montana, survive him. For a number of years, Mr. Lawton was a valued employee of the Henderson & Brown Shoe company in this city.

He was taken ill, December 13, 1919, with a severe attack of pleurisy which resulted in an abscess of the lung. He was thought to be improving in health and his host of friends hoped for his recovery, but Thursday evening he was stricken with paralysis and sank rapidly, the end coming late last night.

The funeral service will be conducted from the home, 117 Crawford avenue, Monday afternoon at 1:45. Rev. Albert B. Whitcomb officiating and burial will take place in Oakwood.

MAY MAKE THE ROCKS POPULAR PLEASURE PARK

G. J. Downing, New Owner, Considers Suggestion.

George J. Downing, who this week secured possession of the Godfrey farm on the Dixon-Rock Falls road—the site of the popular picnic resort known as The Rocks—is giving considerable consideration to a suggestion that the place be made into a complete resort with dance pavilion, band stand, bath houses, etc.
The bathing beach at The Rocks, nearly half a mile long, is said to be of exceptional excellence, and the sites among the trees for pavilion, band stand, etc., are admirable. It is further pointed out by Mr. Downing that the erection of a small station along the Chicago & Northwestern tracks, which run through the farm but a short distance from The Rocks might result in that road stopping its local passenger trains there on Sundays and holidays if sufficient business was realized.

Another Attack on Dry Statute is Filed Today

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, March 27.—Constitutionality of the prohibition amendment and parts of the enforcement act were attacked in a brief filed in the supreme court today by counsel for Christian Fliegenspan, a brewer of Newark, N. J. Fliegenspan is appealing from federal court decrees dissolving injunction proceedings to enjoin prohibition officials from preventing him from manufacturing beer alleged to be non-intoxicating but containing more than one-half of one per cent of alcohol.

Arguments in this case as well as in the original suit brought by New Jersey and appeals from Wisconsin involving these questions will be heard by the court Monday.
The brief, which was prepared by Elihu Root and William D. Guthrie, contends the amendment is invalid because in reality it is legislation imposed by Article V of the constitution; that it impairs the state police of government powers and that it has not been legally ratified by three-fourths of the states because the constitution of several states require submission of the amendment to the electorate.

JUDGE R. S. FARRAND IS CALLED BEFORE SUPREME JUDGE FRIDAY EVENING

Beloved Jurist Passed Quietly to Great Beyond.

Judge Richard S. Farrand, honored citizen, brilliant jurist, influential leader in state politics and beloved friend of many residents of northern Illinois, died last night at his home, Seventh street and Hennepin Avenue, this city.

Funeral services, which will be unpretentious, will be held at the home at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon, Rev. J. M. Tidball, pastor of the Presbyterian church, assisted by Rev. S. S. Cryor, former pastor of the Presbyterian church here, officiating, and with burial at Oakwood cemetery. None of organizations to which the judge belonged, will attend as such.

Twenty years, five successive terms as Judge of the County Court of Lee County and eighteen years on the circuit bench in this, the 15th judicial district, a splendid record of nearly forty years marked by his fairness, manliness, broad wisdom and human mercy, is his monument. As long as the memory of those who knew him lives, Judge Farrand will be mourned as a kind friend, a strong leader, a staunch defender of the right and a greatly beloved character.

Was Republican Leader

As a loyal supporter of the principles of the Republican party in Illinois and the nation and a leader of thought and action, not only in politics but in civic affairs, Judge Farrand was among the leading citizens of the state. He was a close friend and advisor of Frank O. Lowden, governor of Illinois. His life and his successful career reflects splendid credit to his character, his ambitions and his ideals. His success has been entirely self-made. He started with nothing but a heritage of good blood and high ambition and trained his mind and won his way to the top of his chosen profession, the law.

Ill Many Weeks

Until six weeks ago Judge Farrand was on the bench, although previous to that time, in fact dating from the time of the death of his son, Ernest, whom he loved with all his great heart, his health had been suffering and his splendid physique showed the effects of grief and sickness. Six weeks ago he became worse and was confined to his home and for the past two weeks had been bedfast.

Last evening at 6 p. m., the noted jurist passed quietly away while his nurse was reading aloud to him at his bedside, and the life of a strong man who had accomplished much was closed, a soul that was great and good was taken and a heart that was kind and merciful had ceased to beat. One knowing Judge Farrand, and loving him as did all who knew him, can not find words to express adequate appreciation of his sweet nature, fine character or his remarkable ability. We know his place cannot be filled and that his life has done its full share to make this world a better one. He has earned his peace, rest and reward. All sympathy goes to his bereaved wife, Mrs. Farrand herself has been ill for some time.

On Bench 38 Years

Judge Richard S. Farrand was serving his fourth term as circuit court judge, following five term's service as judge of the county court of Lee county, and the history of the bench of this section of the state contains the record of no man who has been more loyal to duty, honorable in purpose, fearless in conduct and stainless in reputation.
Judge Farrand was born in Allen county, Indiana, October 1, 1852, and was a son of E. S. and Delilah (Cook) Farrand, who were natives of Onida county, New York, and at an early day became residents of Indiana, settling there at a pioneer epoch in its history. Their son, Richard, left home when but eleven years of age to earn his own livelihood, working as a farm hand and in other humble capacities, but actuated at all times with the laudable ambition of preparing for and entering upon better things. When fifteen years of age he arrived in Lee county, where he worked and also attended school. Diligence and close application enabled him not only to master his studies but also to qualify for teaching, which profession he followed with marked success for seven years. His worth and ability became recognized and when 25 years of age he was made deputy sheriff of Lee county.

Took Up Study of Law

While acting in that capacity there developed in him an interest in the profession of law and resolving to enter upon its practice, he began studying under the direction of the late A. C. Bardwell. It has been said that when in the matter of life the city boy crosses swords with the country lad, the odds are against him. The early rising, the daily tasks, and the economical habits of the country boy prepare him for the struggle that must precede ascendancy. Such had been the training of Judge Farrand, who when he entered upon his studies was found ready to apply himself with that diligence and determination that must constitute the source of success with the law student. That his good qualities were recognized by his preceptor was indicated in the fact that he was admitted into partnership following his admission to the bar in 1880. The firm of Bardwell & Farrand then existed until 1882, at which time the junior partner was elected judge of the county court for a term of four years.

Re-elected Many Times

Public indorsement of his service came in a re-election in 1886 and again in 1890, 1894 and 1898, and he retired from the office of county judge in 1902 mid the high economies of those best qualified to comment upon his service. In July 1902, he was elected judge of the circuit court to fill out the unexpired term of Judge Crabtree; was re-elected in 1903 for a term of six years, again in 1909 was elected for a six year term, and in 1915, which term would have expired next year, and was active on the bench up to the time he was taken ill six weeks ago.

Married in 1873

In 1873 Judge Farrand was married to Miss C. J. Marsh and to this union two sons were born, Wilbur A., who died at the age of ten years, and Ernest W., who passed away February 2, 1917. Judge Farrand was a Royal Arch Mason, thoroughly in sympathy with the teachings and principles of the craft. In politics he has always been a republican and aside from strict professional paths has filled office, having been elected mayor of Dixon. Duty and honor have ever been his watchwords and justice one of his strong characteristics. The legal profession demands not only a high order of ability but a rare combination of talent, learning, tact, patience and industry. The successful lawyer and a competent judge must be a man of well balanced intellect, thoroughly familiar with the law and practice of comprehensive general information, possessed of an analytic mind and a self-control that will enable him to lose individuality, his personal feelings, his prejudices and his peculiarities of disposition in the dignity, impartiality and equity of the office, to which life, property, right and liberty must look for protection. Possessing these qualities Judge Farrand merited the high honor which had been many times conferred upon him by his election to the circuit bench.

SPRING FEVER

Following Colds, Grip or Flu,
Thin, Watery or Poisoned Blood
(By Dr. Valentine Mott.)

At this time of year most people suffer from what we term "spring fever" because of a stagnant condition of the blood, because of the toxins (poisons) stored up within the body during the long winter. We eat too much meat, with little or no green vegetables.

Bloodless people, thin, anemic people, those with pale cheeks and lips, who have a poor appetite and feel that tired, worn or feverish condition in the spring-time of the year, should try the refreshing tonic powers of a good alterative and blood purifier. Such a tonic as druggists have sold for fifty years, is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is a standard remedy that can be obtained in tablet or liquid form. Made without alcohol from wild roots and barks.

Send ten cents to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for trial package of tablets.

Davenport, Iowa—"Dr. Pierce's medicines have been giving my family the utmost satisfaction for the past fifteen years. I have taken 'Golden Medical Discovery' off and on whenever in a run-down state or in need of a tonic, and one bottle each time restored me to a perfectly healthy condition.

"We think there are no medicines equal to Dr. Pierce's, for they never once failed us and we take the greatest pleasure in recommending these remedies to our friends."—A. P. PLUMB, 1655 Prairie St.

Children's Party Elks Was Success

The most successful number on the program of entertainments for the season given by the Dixon Lodge of Elks was the annual Children's Party of last evening. About 300 children of members of the lodge attended the entertainment and enjoyed themselves to the utmost. The special committee, of which Mrs. Willard Thompson was chairman, provided an ideal program of entertainment for the kiddies and many of the parents enjoyed the evening, equally as much as the little ones. The officers and members of the lodge are most grateful to those ladies for their interest and the decided success of the party last evening which far surpassed any former event of this kind.

Shortly after 7 o'clock the children gathered in the spacious lodge hall to enjoy the program, which was as follows:

Piano Duet—Catherine and Helen Sullivan.
Vocal Solo—Wilbur Harms.
Interpretive Dance—Miss Eudora Courtneyman.
Vocal Solo—Master Willard Thompson.

Euklee Duet—Francis Campbell and Alice Powell.
Interpretive Dance—Miss Violet Watkins.
Recitation—Francis Forsythe.
Vocal Solo—Avis Resek.
Song—DeHaven Quartette.
Vocal Solo—Master George Bird Brinton.

Piano Solo—Bernice Leland.
Vocal Solo—James Tidball.
Recitation—Dwight Thompson.

Following the program, the children formed in a grand march which was led by Cadet March Prescott Brinton and Miss Elizabeth Hennessy. The children marched to the dining room where dainty refreshments were served, by a special committee of ladies, assisted by the lodge house committee. In all about 450 were served during the evening from 8:30 to 10 o'clock. Dancing occupied the late hours of the evening.

WANTED—COPIES OF MARCH 25th TELEGRAPH.

Sister Mary's Kitchen

(Copyright, 1920, N. E. A.)

No matter how simple the furnishings of one's guest room may be, absolute freshness of draperies and linens make for attractiveness and charm. And by the same token no matter how elaborate and expensive the furnishings may be, without this perfect cleanliness there is no perfect hospitality.

The neat arrangement of a judicious selection of toilet articles adds to the comfort of a guest. A clutter of things leaves no place for the visitor's personal property. Too much is always a greater crime than too little, for the guest has a feeling that there is no room for her own things and she'd better not unpack and "make herself at home."

Menu for Tomorrow.
BREAKFAST—Baked apples, cereal with milk, toast, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Oyster cutlets, lettuce sandwiches, fruit dessert, tea.

DINNER—Tomato soup, mock sausages, steamed rice, creamed spinach, custard, plain cookies, coffee.

My Own Recipes.
"Meat once a day" is the judgment of many authorities on dietetics. This is, of course, more or less dependent on the sort of work one's family does. The time for serving the heavy meal of the day is absolutely dependent on the nature of a man's endeavors. In this meatless menu even the man who works muscularly will find no lack. A coarse bran bread should be served.

OYSTER CUTLETS.
1 pint oysters.
2 tablespoons flour.
1 1/2 tablespoons butter.
1 cup milk.
2 tablespoons chopped parsley.
1 egg.
Salt.
Pepper.
Cracker crumbs.

Chop oysters. Melt butter, add flour and cook until perfectly smooth. Beat egg slightly. Add egg to cooked mixture and cook a minute longer. Remove from fire and add seasoning and oysters. Spread on a platter to cool. When cool form into small cutlets, roll in cracker crumbs and fry in hot fat. Garnish with lemon to serve.

CREAMED SPINACH.
2 pounds spinach.
2 tablespoons butter.
1 tablespoon flour.
1/2 cup milk.
Salt.
Pepper.
Hard-boiled egg (1 or 2).

Wash and pick over spinach. Put in stew pan and heat gradually. Cook in its own juice. Drain and chop. Make a sauce of butter, flour and milk. Add spinach and salt and pepper. Arrange in serving dish and garnish with slices of hard-boiled egg. Or the egg white may be chopped and added to the sauce and the yolk rice over the top of the spinach in the serving dish.

POLES PREVENT REDS CROSSING SLUTCH RIVER

Bolsheviki Attacking on Fronts Totalling 150 Miles.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Warsaw, March 27.—Russian Soviet forces, swinging south of the Priepet marsh country between Mozir and Pinsk and attacking Polish lines at various points over a front of approximately 250 miles, have captured several towns along the Slutch river, it is admitted in official circles. The enemy, however, has been unable to cross the Slutch river, which parallels the front for a long distance.

Bolshevik attacks on Wednesday were chiefly directed toward the village of Olevsk, about half way between Rovno and Mozir, and further south between Derabnia Litchev. Infantry and cavalry were launched at the Polish lines under artillery fire, while Soviet aeroplanes bombed strategic points along the front. Derabnia, which is a railroad town north-east of Kamenetz-Podolsk was under heavy artillery fire all day yesterday.

In the neighborhood of Zaslavl the Poles virtually annihilated a Soviet brigade, among the killed being a Bolshevik colonel. On his person were found orders directing that Zaslavl be taken regardless of the cost. The town is still in Polish hands, but savage fighting is centering about it. Between Baranovka and Miropol (Lubart) further north, the Bolsheviks are reported to be concentrating their forces and bring up heavy artillery.

REDS CAPTURE PEREKOP.
Constantinople, March 26.—The Bolsheviks have recaptured Perekop, on the Isthmus between Peninsula of the Crimea and the Mainland, and outbreaks have occurred at different points behind the lines of the Russian volunteer army.

Members of the British mission at Novorossisk are reported to be embarking.

TAKE LAST DENEKINE CITY.
By Associated Press Leased Wire
London, March 26.—Novorossisk, the last base in southern Russian under control of General Denekine has been captured by the Russian Bolsheviks, according to a wireless despatch from Moscow.

Child's Murderers Still Undetected

Stuebenville, O., March 27.—Identity of the person or persons who killed 11 year old Frances South, near her home at Adena, 25 miles west of here, three days ago, had not been established today, in spite of the fact that numerous armed posses have scoured the surrounding country since the body of the girl was found Thursday afternoon.

Previous belief that Frances South was the victim of a man wearing a military uniform was done away with today when the child's mother identified the cord which bound the wrists as a part of her tan-o' shanter hat. This was brought out during the investigating just completed by Coroner T. R. Kirk, who returned to this city today. Coroner Kirk said he felt sure the child had been kicked to death. Her skull was fractured and there was an imprint of the heel of a shoe over her right temple. The child had been criminally attacked, according to the coroner.

Three more suspects were arrested by searching parties last night. Two were foreigners and the name of one is said to correspond with the initials on a handkerchief which was found across the girl's mouth, the authorities claim. The third suspect is a negro.

WORKERS' CONTROL OF GERMAN CITIES APPEARS ON DECLINE

Are Insufficiently Organized in Military Affairs.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Falkenstein, Saxony, March 25.—Workers have taken over control in towns and cities of lower Saxony, but there is an impression their ascendancy will be short lived as they are not sufficiently organized in a military way to resist pressure successfully. It is noticeable that the nearer one comes to districts where government troops are in power, the worker is the workers held on affairs.

In this little town, 15 miles from Plauen, Max Hoelz, whose regular job is lecturer in a moving picture theatre, is directing affairs. Widespread reports that he had established a Soviet republic here made him famous throughout Germany a few days ago but these rumors are declared untrue. The Burgomaster fled when the upheaval came two weeks ago and workers have since been co-operating with the other town officials, none of whom has been removed.

The principal task of the workers is policing the town. A guard numbering several hundred men, has been recruited from trade union and revolutionary elements, and men have been sent in banks to prevent the withdrawal of money by wealthy depositors.

Held City Attorney.
One hundred workers under the direction of Hoelz, entered Plauen in motor lorries Sunday night and kidnapped City Attorney Hubert and held him as a hostage until he had given up data he had gathered for the prosecution of trade unionists and communists of political agitation.

Hoelz has established headquarters in the castle of Freiherr Falkenstein, who has fled from this region. It was in this castle that the Associated Press correspondent interviewed Hoelz tonight. He is a small, young appearing man, with a thin face and sparse hair but with glowing brown eyes. He said in part:

"The time is not ripe for the establishment of Soviet form of government. The agriculturists would not approve of it and we would be quickly starved out. We recognize the absolute helplessness of workers in case of armed conflict and we will not attempt to physically resist military occupation of Falkenstein. If the troops appear we will again call a general strike."

Hoelz, for whose arrest there is a reward of 5,000 marks, said the workers' grievance against the government, was its militarism and asserted they would try to weaken the government by agitation. Falkenstein is on the edge of what has been called "Germany's starvation belt."

THE PEAK?

Is the High Cost of Living at the peak?
Perhaps we are ultra-optimistic, but we believe that that long hoped-for time is at hand, or very near and that Hi Prices will soon be on the slanting side and will toboggan back to somewhere near normal. Perhaps we will never see prices back to pre-war days, but certainly they must recede to a point where living on this earth will be a pleasure instead of an uncertain struggle. Unless they do, something will crack under the strain.
As a hopeful sign, you will find now and then that something is cheaper. Articles that probably have as much right to stay up in price as anything else surprise you when you find you can buy them at a lower figure.
One item that comes to our attention, and which will bring a ray of hope to the downtrodden public, is a cut in the price of condensed milk. Borden's evaporated milk, made in Dixon, by the way, has come down in price. If your retailer has not cut his price, ask him why. The manufacturer has reduced the price of a case of tall cans of evaporated milk from $6.75 to $5.00 a case.
This is a reduction of $1.75 a case. There are 48 cans in a case. Each can now costs the jobber about 10 1/2 cents. It used to cost him about 14 1-3 cents. The price of each can to you, the consumer, should be about 3 1/2 cents lower than before.
A few items such as these will not affect much saving in the family budget, but the interesting feature is that they effect the opening wedge. If we are to have a general lowering of living costs a start must be made somewhere. It would be ideal if everything could come down at once and we could wake up some morning to discover that rent and clothing and coal and food were at half price. But we might as well wish for the hens to lay two eggs at a time or work nights or something and for the climate and styles to demand a return to Adam and Eve's fashion of haberdashery. No, the price of no one thing can be expected to drop until its costs of production, or, in other words, the price of another thing comes down. That would be a long wait if no one took the initiative.
But let things get a fair start and prices in general will follow rapidly. In justice to those who start the movement, general prices must scale down as quickly as possible. Cooperation and unselfishness will do the job.
The manufacturer says he cannot cut his prices while labor costs are so high. But the workingman contends that he must have his high wage because his cost of living is so high, and part of his cost of living is high because of the complaining manufacturer's high prices. Labor cannot be picked for the "goat." Labor is less able to bear the burden than others, for the individual workingman has but little reserve to go on. But labor has its part of the problem to care for. Excessive demands for high wages will only aggravate the situation. And it works both ways. It is a mutual problem and one that mands, let us repeat, cooperation and unselfishness.
Milk is a vital necessity. Our babies and children need it as the basis of their food.
Nothing could be more appropriate as an "entering wedge" for the bringing back of prices to somewhere near a fair figure. Here's hoping that other necessary commodities will be quick to follow.

been launched and 'though "we don't know where we're going we're on our way."

reason for development. We surely ought to get somewhere.

President Edward Vaile is showing wisdom and executive ability in his acts thus far in organizing and starting the machinery of the city building work. He has put the Chamber of Commerce into working condition and it is up to the workers he has appointed to carry on the detail that is vital to success. No man or small group of men can bring Dixon's hopes to realization. The active support of every citizen is necessary for success, and when calls for public support are sent out by the Chamber of Commerce, then will Dixon's test of public spirit come.

We are confident of results, big results, from the Chamber of Commerce. We think the organization will be capably directed and generously supported and that is all that is necessary for success. Dixon should be a city of twenty thousand people ten years from today.

A DELUSION.

The tremendous values of exports and imports reported by the Department of Commerce for the year 1919 have led to the assumption that America was exporting and importing more commodities than ever before. The fact is, however, that America is under a delusion. It is true that the total value of exports in 1919 was almost eight billion, as compared with a value of only five and one-half billion in 1916. But in 1916 the United States exported more goods than in 1919. The total commodities exported in 1916 amounted to 53 million net tons, while the total in 1919 was 51 million tons.

Imports show the same. The total value of imports in 1919 was almost four billions, and the total tonnage was 46 millions; whereas in 1916, although the total value of imports was only two billion, the total tonnage was 51 million.

This results from counting in 50-cent dollars. It takes twice as many dollars to move the same amount of tonnage. Our exports and imports have actually fallen off in VOLUME as compared with 1916. America is rich in money but not so rich in commodities. That's one reason why prices are so high.

A QUESTION OF LOYALTY.

Certain Japanese who were born in the Hawaiian islands have petitioned the Mikado for release from the allegiance they feel they owe him. They inform him that they are Americans in habit and heart, and that they cannot with sincerity continue to go through the mummery of a loyalty which actually does not exist. It seems to us that these Japanese are mistaken. If they do not love Japan, they do not have to act as if they do. If they do not reverence the Mikado they are in the pleasant position of snapping their fingers at him. Their petition indicates that it is their Americanism which has blowholes in it, not the chains which bind them to Asia.

Lane says Washington is rich in brains. Surely the man is speaking of the permanent residents.

At present prices the man who is driven to drink is driven to bankruptcy soon thereafter.

At any rate the allies had the fun of discussing what they would like to do with Turkey.

OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

MISS LADY BUG ARRIVES

But no new pupils came to the Singing school for a time, and Nancy and Nick saw that Professor Skylark was getting impatient. "My, my!" he exclaimed as he walked up and down the fence near the gatepost sign, taking out his watch every few minutes. "Prices keep going up and I need the money! I had to pay a dollar today for bird seed I used to get for 15 cents. Ah, ha! Here comes somebody now." And he gave his brown waistcoat a jerk and straightened his tie, as he hopped down to receive the newcomer.

It was Miss Lady-Bug in her terra-cotta satin dress with black spots, shiny as a new cent.

"I want to learn to sing," said she timidly. "Is this the place?"

"It certainly is," said the professor in an encouraging voice, ushering her up the path where he had his piano under a bush of wild currants. "Now what would you like to learn, buzzes, or hums, or chirps, and he ran a scale on the piano with one hand, matching the notes with his fine voice.

"Oh, how lovely!" exclaimed Miss Lady-Bug. "I'd like to learn that, May 17."

"Well, not exactly," said the professor, smiling in a very patronizing way, as he wheeled around on his stool. "You see, you're a—ahem! An insect, and I'm a bird. Just wait 'till I get out my book on insect exercises. We'll try the buzzes first!"

"The twins" then saw him set the book marked "Fine Buzzes" on the piano bracket. "Now," said he, "stick out your wings so and wiggle them so."

Miss Lady-Bug looked frightened, but did what she was told. But no sound came.

"No, no, no!" cried Professor Skylark. "That's too slow!"

War makes humor comets, just as real comets are said to portend war. We have left the Civil war type of humor behind us but a few years and the joke of the Great War is with us numerously. Here is a typical one:

A regiment of American negroes, under fire, were waiting for the "zero hour."

It was to be their first trip "over the top." They knew that behind them were ten thousands white soldiers in reserve.

"What will be headlines be back in Memphis tomorrow?" asked a shivering private of his bunkie.

"I know," was the answer. "If all these boys feels lak I does, day's gwine to be: 'Ten Thousand White Men Tromped to Death.'"

Why is a Prune?

Mr. Dooley said Niagara Falls fell "because there's nawthin' to prevent thim."

That's the same with the prune. It's "jacket" is wrinkled because there's "nawthin' to prevent it."

When the prune was a plum on a tree it was smooth and round because it was well filled by juicy fruit. When the prune was picked and laid in the sun this juice evaporated and—here's the catch—the weight of the air shoved in the prune's sides.

They didn't just fall in—they were pushed in by the weight of the air, amounting to about 45 pounds all over the surface of the prune. That is—15 pounds to the square inch.

That's why things wrinkle when they dry up. Old folks' faces wrinkle because there is less moisture in the flesh beneath and the air wins the battle of pressure.

Just because you are strong and well, and you don't mind the fact that every inch of your body has a weight of 15 pounds on it, don't forget that Maw Nature never takes that pressure away of her own accord. She's wrinkling things and people every minute.

That one employee in every ten had a venereal disease.

That 68 per cent of the non-effective were on the non-effective list because of venereal diseases.

That every person who had a venereal disease lost three times as many hours from work as the person not affected.

That it cost every person so afflicted $75 per year for treatment, a total of $50,000 for treatment with loss of time greatly exceeding this amount.

It was reasonably established that conditions in the plant surveyed were typical of conditions in other plants. It served the purpose of convincing the officials that it would be well worth the cost to remedy the situation.

The United States Public Health Service was appealed to and co-operated in establishing free clinics where the employees could be treated. It took only a comparatively short while to write off the cost of operating the clinics by increased production.

FINDING THE CAUSE OF LOWERED PRODUCTIVITY.

Here are a few plain, though none the less startling, facts which should be carefully studied by every employer of labor who wishes to improve efficiency, reduce production costs and put his plant on a basis where it will pay dividends on the investment.

The information is furnished by a corporation that among its other activities built a city in a wilderness for the housing of thousands of men and women employees, subsequently when efficiency of these workers dropped because what might be expected, this concern sent experts to conduct a survey and find the cause. It developed:

A—Dr. Stokes of the celebrated Mayo clinic has written a book for the U. S. Public Health Service, entitled, "Today's World Problem in Disease Prevention." It is decidedly one of the most extensively interesting books ever written on this subject, and will grip your interest and hold it like a novel. Dr. Stokes kindly furnished the Public Health Service with a number of these books to be distributed to a limited number of people. If you will write to the Information Editor, U. S. Public Health Service, Washington, D. C., a copy of this book will be mailed to you, postage free.

SUCH IS LIFE

In Kansas City, a bank robber has just been sentenced to a term of 45 years. The probabilities are that he will be old enough to know better when his time is up.

Ont of the biggest eggness of prohibition times was shaken together near St. Catharines, Ont. It happened when a freight car struck a truck on which were several cases of whisky, two cans of milk and a crate of eggs. It only lacked the grated nutmeg to be perfect.

Democrats of Independence, Kansas, failed to renominate Mayor Christian Ott. Maybe they considered him a cipher. Or zero in candidates. At any rate, Ott cut not a figure in the convention.

Who remembers the days when an automobile coming down the street would frighten the living gizzard out of old dobbie and cause people to stop and gaze until the horseless carriage disappeared in a cloud of dust?

Just before little boys leave for a visit to grandma is the time when their necks, faces and ears show to the best advantage.

That education is great thing may be seen in the fact that one student is making $6,000 a year running the college dining room, where even the $1,500 to $3,000 professors cannot afford to eat.

If the price of gasoline continues to rise, those who bought wholesale against an increase may store it for safekeeping with their coal and whisky and other valuables in the cellar. In which case thieves had better watch out.

Confessions of a Bride

(Copyright 1920, by The Newspaper Enterprise Association)

It would be the final beneficence of living, I thought, to die with Bob. But my husband wasn't at all ready to die with me, it appeared. With strength which was almost super-human, he carried me swiftly down the stairs and ran with me toward the patio: He had placed me on a bench, and was putting hard for a breath, when a noise like that of thunder after a lightning stroke hurt my ears.

Bob's body bent over me, close to me, as bits of flying debris clattered around us.

"Jane! Jane! Jane!" I heard him murmur, not in reproach, but with the utmost tenderness.

Bob Carries Me to Safety Just As the Hacienda Went Up With a Roar.

The explosion of the munitions rocked all the little world which was centered in that hacienda. The bench on which I rested swayed like a rowboat high on a wave. Then a stillness like that of a tomb followed the thunder.

Bob raised me in his arms and carried me back to my bed. Before we reached the balcony, I heard the scurrying of a hundred feet. Women were sobbing and screaming. Men were shouting orders for buckets and hoses. I caught the throb of the engine which worked the pumps of the deep wells. Then I felt the softness of warm blankets about me, and I clutched my husband's hand in my unbandaged hand—and went to sleep.

At least I no longer heard the hubbub out of doors. I wasn't awake, nevertheless, one part of my mind was going over and over one of the most beautiful thoughts I had ever had in my life.

Bob and I loved each other more and more the longer we lived together. That was the real wonder of true love like ours. We didn't wear it out with use. I had come close to death, and to the very end, my husband—and our mutual love—had been the only thought in my mind. Sometimes I roused myself from my sleep to reassure myself that I still held Bob's hand.

"A man and woman who desire a perfect existence, couldn't invent for themselves a more wonderful institution than marriage and monogamy," thought I. And I reviewed, in my subconscious state, the menace to old social institutions which has been much discussed since the war. Even the most conventional persons consider themselves cultured when they arraign marriage as an institution—as if humanity had invented something too ideal to live up to!

"Marriage isn't at fault at all, is it? I said turning to Bob. "People are at fault."

Bob didn't understand, of course. He touched my hair with his lips and whispered, "Don't talk, honey! Go to sleep again!"

I closed my eyes, but my brain kept whirling the same theme over.

"Love isn't a game of solitaire," I said. "Some men expect their wives to treat it so. Marriage, as prescribed by laws, is the absolutely ideal state, but of course, the type of man who carries the picture of four queen in his pocket can never understand that. But really nice men—idealists like my husband—normal men—all know that marriage is not a failure. The people who undertake it, fail."

"Woman by her silliness is kept from realizing to what heights of glory her devotion to her husband can carry her. And man, by his own selfishness, destroys the very splendor which he is eternally seeking."

And I remembered that Hamilton Cerise had loved me, and Katherine Miller had loved Bob.

"Everywhere—and all the time—there is an opportunity for every man and woman to be disloyal to true love," I said to myself.

Cerise had destroyed my peace and Katherine Miller, for a time had changed Bob from a gentleman to something rather common.

One kind of love destroyed, but the other was constructive and made all life's hardships easy to endure.

"It's all right, old dear?" I muttered. "Isn't it?"

"Of course—everything's all right, darling. Are you better?"

"My mind has been going around in circles," I answered. "Change the subject for me. What happened—out there?"

TROTSKY SPEECH WON DESERTION ARMY OF 80,000

Melted Away to Reds After They Were Called Pals.

New York, March 26.—How an army of 80,000 Kolchak troops "melted away" by desertion to the Bolsheviks following a speech made to prisoners of war by Leon Trotsky, in Omsk, Siberia, two days after that city's evacuation by the All-Russian forces, was told here today by Major General L. Thord-Gray, a former officer of the British, Canadian and All-Russian armies just returned from Vladivostok.

Trotsky, he said, addressing the prisoners as "comrades," said they would be welcomed by the red army if they cared to join. Captive officers, he said, who wanted to return to Kolchak would be given safe escort and 2,000 rubles each. A number of the prisoners accepted the offer and, returning to their own lines, told what Trotsky had done. Within two weeks, General Thord-Gray said, Kolchak had practically no army and a few months later was executed.

General Thord-Gray went to Siberia with a Canadian expedition and was taken prisoner by the Bolsheviks when they captured Vladivostok. Before leaving, two attempts, he said, were made to assassinate him.

Toward the last, he said, the Bolshevik troops showed better morale than Kolchak's men. They also had one machine gun for every 20 men, he said, whereas the Kolchak army had only three with every battalion, almost 600 men. During the retreat of the Kolchak army, a 2,000-mile retirement they were driven before machine guns but seldom before the rifle fire. General Sakharoff, the All-Russian war minister and chief of staff, he said, "lost the army at Omsk without a fight."

"I had been troubled so long with nervousness and sleeplessness that my housework was a drudgery and I got little pleasure out of life. My appetite left me entirely and at times I could hardly bear the sight of food and what little I did eat caused me severe suffering afterward. Gas would form on my stomach so badly that it affected my heart and I thought I had heart trouble.

"I was so nervous I would jump at the least unexpected noise and would drop everything I had in my hands. I got so weak and faint at times that I would have to catch hold of something to keep from falling over. My sleep was broken and restless and I was losing weight rapidly. I had little strength or energy and, as I had tried all kinds of medicines without relief, I had become very much discouraged over my condition.

"My husband had been taking Tanlac and when I saw what wonderful results he was getting I decided to try it myself and now I think as much of Tanlac as he does because it has helped me the same way.

"My appetite has come back and everything agrees with me perfectly. I am taking on weight rapidly and have already gained nine pounds; in fact, I feel perfectly well in every way. Tanlac has done wonders for me and I am only too happy to tell others about it."

Tanlac is sold in Dixon by Public Drug & Book Co., and by the leading druggists in every town.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Wood Managers in Answer to Borah

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, March 27.—W. C. Proctor, national campaign manager for Major General Leonard Wood, today answered charges in the senate yesterday by Senator Borah regarding campaign expenditures of presidential candidates.

"Any money used in furtherance of General Wood's campaign has been expended openly for perfectly legitimate publicity and not one cent for any indirect or corrupt purpose," said the statement.

"The people approve campaign methods of the open and straightforward sort that we have adopted. We resent any statement or imputation of illegal or corrupt expenditures and shall hold the guilty person responsible therefor. This attack at this time looks like the last stand of the old guard."

Great Britain lost 4,000 prominent athletes in the great war.

Look and Feel Clean, Sweet and Fresh Every Day

Drink a glass of real hot water before breakfast to wash out poisons.

Life is not merely to live, but to live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs. The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatism; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quartet pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store which will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

MOTOR NOTES

STARTS AUTO TRIP IN A FLIVVER,
AUTOMOBUMMING—NO. 1
BUT FINISHES IT IN A ROWBOAT!

Cleveland, O., March 27.—Ben's flivver is still doing its best for him, but only as a truck. Since last summer, when it behaved so badly as a passenger vehicle, it must rattle through the city as a light truck, bedecked with the sign of Ben, the Hardware Man, and summoning attention with the clanking of pipes and the rustling of tin.

The last straw was that Sunday trip to Vermilion, 45 miles west of here. Patching up tires and tubes, replacing spark plugs, brake rods, nuts and bolts, overhauling a balky engine and ending up with running two miles on three wheels and a rim made the pleasure trip miserable for Ben.

A cop started it. He stopped the flivver and berated Ben for passing a street car that had been discharging passengers. Still within the city, the flivver became resentful and blew up—out rather.

Well, no use mentioning every puncture and blowout. It would drag the story too long. Enough to say the longest run made that day wasn't ten miles. But the crowd was joyful and happy, and while the two women gossiped, the men worked.

The patched-up Ford was still able to run merrily onward until it passed Elyria. Suddenly there was a snap, then a rattle and clank of metal. Ben tried to stop short, but the brakes wouldn't work. The brake rod had broken!

Slowly and carefully, the flivver hobbled into the next town, Amherst, where a garage was discovered. After nearly two hours of grimy toil, Ben got his flivver together and the merry quartet went on its way. But no. That was too good for the flivver. Only two miles more to Vermilion, when another blow-out occurred. And not a shoe nor patch left!

Ben usually swears, but he never gets angry. He decided to run into town on three wheels, covering the rim of the fourth with an old shoe. But the hobbling was tiresome and troublesome. When he got to the dirt road just east of the Vermilion river, along which he had another jaunt of two miles, southward, Ben quit.

Leaving the crippled Ford along the roadside, the four went down to the river bank, hired a rowboat and rowed up-stream for two miles to their destination.

They had time to say "Hello," borrow a new tire and tube and row back to the flivver before nightfall. The flivver repented and since then has been giving good service—as a truck.

PRIZE MOTOR ESSAY
WRITTEN BY CHILD

Ten commandments for safety, composed by 11-year-old Beulah Garland, took the prize offered by the Cobourg, Ont., Motor Club for the best essay on "How Children May Help to Avoid Motor Accidents." They are:

1. Thou shalt not play upon the street.
2. Thou shalt not cross the street, only at crossings, as there thou has the right of way.
3. Thou shalt look before crossing the street.
4. Remember, after getting out of a car thou shalt not cross the street behind a car.
5. Thou shalt not get in or out of a car when it is moving.
6. Thou shalt not interfere with cars as thou may'st put them out of order and cause accidents.

7. Thou shalt not drop nails, glass or pins upon the road and cause motorists to have blowouts and perhaps accidents.
8. Thou shalt not light matches near gasoline.
9. Thou shalt keep the motor rules when riding on a bicycle.
10. Thou shalt help old people across the street.

Make Your Own Funnel.

Why look around for a funnel to fill your radiator, when you can cut a hole in a corner of a square-bottom can and use that as a funnel?

Remember—

To cross railroad tracks diagonally, so as to reduce the jolt to a minimum. To zigzag up a steep grade, to lighten the grade and help the motor.

Massachusetts may be the first state to force people to learn prevention against accidents. A bill filed with the Legislature by the Automobile Legal Association would make accident prevention the subject of a course in public schools.

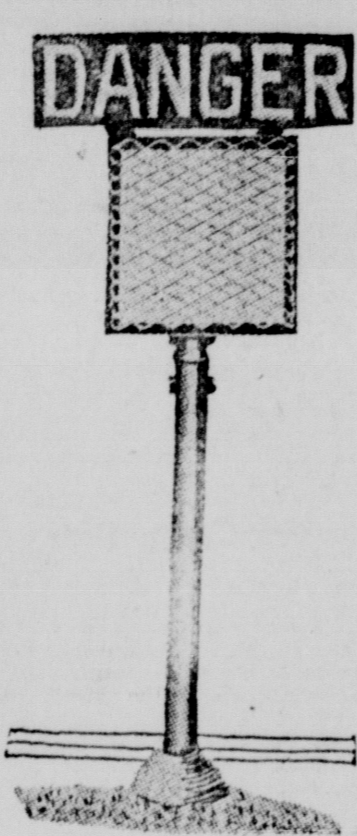

Japanese motorists must have regard for pedestrians. On muddy days, the law requires them to place "splash fenders" along the bottom side of the wheels so that mud may not strike passing pedestrians.

LIGHT CAR AHEAD

Cleveland, O., March 26.—Although efforts to replace cast iron construction with aluminum have been so far unsuccessful, the task to obtain a lighter car than ever has not been given up.

One of the organizations still at it is the Aluminum Castings Company of this city. Automobile engineers are working out plans by which an all aluminum machine will be manufactured, toward the end of making it a large car, but of light weight.

SEEN AT NIGHT

Motorists along Ohio's roads next season will have no trouble riding at night for this sign at danger points will glare at them and warn them against accident. The Cleveland Automobile Club has been putting these up through the winter.

While the word, "Danger" is red is easily seen by day, the square beneath, at night, throws back a glowing red to the motorist as his headlights strike it.

New Method Gas Stoves

For the last 8 years we have sold the New Method Stoves without change and have found them in many respects superior to any other line. They have All Enamel Burners inside and out which makes them easy to wash, and, as they are smooth on the inside as well as out, they offer no resistance to the flow of gas, thus insuring a more uniform mixture of gas and air before burning. This gives you more heat from the gas you pay for as it mixes more air and burns a better-bluer flame.

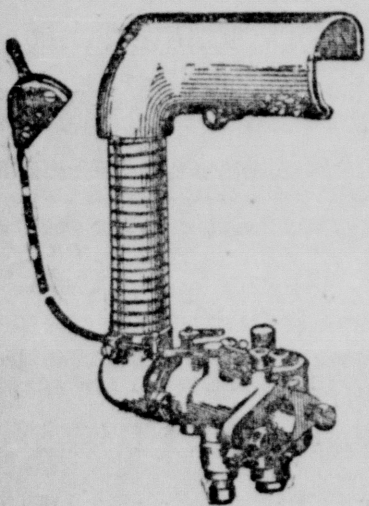

We carry a large variety of styles, sizes and finishes. We can suit all tastes and pocket-books.

Should you need a Gas Plate, we have them in 1, 2 and 3-burner. Gas hose. Gas shut-off valves. Pipe. Pipe-fittings. In fact, everything in the Stove line.

Quality Goes Clear Through

It is acknowledged that cantilever springs are the easy riding form of suspension for cars of comparatively short wheelbase.

Yet there is an individuality in Dort's manner of traversing rough roads. It has a difference in its swing and freedom from "kick up" in the tonneau.

Proper size, weight and hanging of the springs and correct distribution of body weight, account for this difference.

Let the dealer explain to you why the Dort wears longer, is more economical and comfortable.

Three White Sox May Be Dropped

Chicago, March 26.—Three veteran members of the Chicago White Sox, last year's pennant winners, may be dropped from baseball this season, if they fail to report, according to Charles A. Comiskey, president of the club. The three players named in the statement are George (Buck) Weaver, third baseman, Charles Risberg, shortstop, and "Chick" Gandil, first baseman.

Mr. Comiskey, who returned from the Pacific coast, declared that he had not seen any of the trio while there and had no reason to see them. Weaver and Risberg are under contract to play with his club this season. Gandil has refused to sign his contract. The players have threatened to go into business if their demands for higher salaries are not granted, while President Comiskey is determined in his stand that the players live up to the contracts which were given them at their own request.

THE WOMAN WHO LOVED--AND EARNED

JERRY MAKES UP HER MIND.

CHAPTER 96.

The next day was Friday. Madame expected me back Monday. I was utterly miserable. I could set myself at nothing, but roamed around the tiny flat, talking out loud, going over everything I could think of, for and against the giving up of my position.

Finally I could stand the nervous strain no longer, and put on my hat and coat. I would go out and take a long walk. Perhaps I could think better in the open, more easily make up my mind.

I walked until I was tired. Then without having come to any conclusion, I went down to the store. I had promised Robert I would come down and help him with the windows. Some new goods had come in, and he was going to redress the windows for Saturday.

"I had begun to think you had thrown me down," he said, smiling at me.

"No, I took a long walk this afternoon, and didn't allow quite time enough to get here promptly."

We had scarcely commenced to work when the telephone rang.

"Answer it, Gerry, will you?" Robert was on a step ladder getting out some goods we wanted.

"Has Mr. Meredith come yet?" It was a woman's voice--Marion Hoey's, I felt sure.

"Some one to speak to you, Robert," "Ask them to hold the phone a moment. I don't want to climb up here again."

I did so, and the voice sweetly acquiesced. Then Robert went to the phone.

"Hello!--oh, Marion! No, not tonight--too bad--can't be helped. No, Mrs. Meredith is here. We are going to the motion picture show when we get thru here and have our dinner. She is helping me--yes, trim the windows. Sorry--no I'm afraid not--if I can--won't promise--good night."

"My, I thought she never would stop talking," he exclaimed in a tone that made me feel like patting him on the back.

"What did she want?" I asked as carefully as I could.

"Wanted me to come up to dinner. Then asked me to run up tomorrow night. Must think I haven't anything to do." This time I could have shouted for joy.

I said no more about Marion, but put my mind upon the work, and in less than an hour we had finished. Then we had some dinner at a very good place near the store, and afterward went to the movies. We were just in time for the 9 o'clock show.

It was late when we reached home, almost 12.

"Want some supper, Robert?"

"Do I?"

"Really are you hungry?"

"Yes, and we won't have these cozy suppers much longer," a shadow crossing his face.

"Why yes we will--that is if you can earn enough to buy them."

I had not knowingly decided I would not go back. The shadow on his face, the way he had talked to Marion, the thought that she still was a menace to me, calling him at the store--may all have had their effect on me. But Robert was no more surprised than I. He turned pale, while I felt as if every bit of blood in my body had rushed to my face.

"What do you mean, Gerry?"

"Just what I said, dear. I shall not go back to Madame Leets on Monday. That is, unless you send me."

"I send you--"

"Yes. Unless you are afraid to try running things alone." It was hard even to imply he needed my money that we might live.

"And you will try to get along on what I make?"

"Yes--"

"Oh, Gerry! I--"

"Robert, let's be real sensible about it. I am going to find a little flat. I am going to keep house for you. You are going to take care of me. I believe you have a chance for advancement with Burch, and I also believe you will know how to make the most of your opportunity."

"And I am to have a real home at last? Not even Mary's, but one of our very own, yours and mine, Gerry?"

For the second time since I had married him, I saw Robert wipe the tears from his eyes. But this time he smiled so happily thru them, that my own eyes misted. He had cared more than I realized.
